“ Momma Flo was the first person to truly give me confidence to stand up in front of anyone and sing. No I'm not famous or anything because of it but that doesn't change the major impact it had on me. Every time I would go by her house with Jerrica she asked me to sing strawberry wine for her, and I would, and she would tear up or clap or exclaim every time and talk about it for the next hour to anyone who cared to listen to her brag about me lol. I'm 100% serious when I say the first time I grabbed a mic to sing in front of people in my adult life, I thought of her, and I do every time still. I hear her encouragement and see her genuine support in the eyes I'll never forget that echo in my memory for life. She was a very special person to me <3
